POD first opened in 1993 in the vaults of the old historic Railway Station on Harcourt St. Sweeping the boards at many International Awards that year, the cutting edge design juxtaposed the preserved stark grey stone walls of the vaults with colourful soft furnishings and shimmering candlelight.

The opening of POD coincided with the arrival of club culture in Dublin. At the forefront of garage and house music in Dublin, the dance floor has heaved to all the great house DJ's including Paul Oakenfold, Danny Rampling, Frankie Knuckles, Marshall Jefferson, Grandmaster Flash and Boy George to name but a few.

POD has had several makeovers since those heady days, periodically transforming its face and its rhythm to suit the changing times. Its latest incarnation was designed by renowned Australian architect and designer Andy Martin.

The club furnishings are a bright mandarin in contrast to the dark granite surroundings, with circular seated booths lining the club space.

POD is available Sunday-Thursday inclusive for private or corporate functions, either on its own or with the adjoining Lobby Bar.
